File can come from any of the above, but their UFN is a high, so, this particular one uses the 128.2.128.2 UFN. What is the best way to get a copy of UFN128.2.128.2 to my own host so I can enable ipv6. I tried to download the public key on apache2 but I can not.. I have downloaded a ufnd.tds file from the table of contents page at the URL I posted below. I tried to work with it, but it's not possible because it says that the file does not match the MD5 hash, but MD5 hashes match perfectly with the files I have here.. What is the best way to find the UFN as this is the one I need to use in my apache config? I have the key file right now, and I want to know how to get it to work.. I'm so desperate I'm starting to think this is not the case, as I don't even understand the difference between 'large private key', 'private key', 'public key' etc. A: This is the key we provide so that you will be able to download a full file. If you are having difficulties with importing the key please follow these instructions: Note that this configuration does not support SSL but if that is your requirement, please refer to this document:
